Octogenarian Challenges Steel Kings—Inventor Claims He Gives Life.

Tomorrow's issue of The Washington Sunday Times will be one of the most attractive ever published. It will be well stocked with interesting and entertaining pictures and stories. The following are a few hints as to what the paper will contain:

In the first place, there will be a story of the prominent society people of Washington who have yielded to the new roller skating fad. A new use which society is going to make of the roller skate will be described. The color page illustrating this story is one of the most attractive ever published in the Capital.

There will be an account of two christenings, the life of which have never been seen in Washington before. There are several babies in this city whose fathers are Japanese and whose mothers are Washington girls. These children will be christened tomorrow. Some students from "Dai Nippon" will be present and take part in the feasting and presentation of gifts. This article will be fully illustrated with photographs of the parents and children.

Men of prominence may not wear their hats as they choose. They are obliged by certain rules to refrain from manumism in the streets. The reader will find many of them might follow if it were not for their constant gaze by the public eye. Read in tomorrow's paper why Senators, Cabinet members, and others do not follow certain ways of wearing the hat.

An inventor claims to have made a machine by means of which he has brought back life after it had departed from the body. This wonderful discovery may revolutionize the science of medicine. Read what the inventor says of what he has done and of what he can do with his wonderful machine. This is the first public announcement that has ever been made of this recent scientific find.

The days of the Inquisition are not past. In Russia tortures as cruel as ever inflicted by the Inquisition are being perpetrated today. A full and graphic account of these present-day atrocities is given in tomorrow's Times. Among others, an innocent young girl is made the victim of the cruel Russian Inquisition.

There is a baroness in Washington, although she has not been known by her noble title. Her rather was the famous Frenchman who "made himself king." The daughter has a lock of hair of Pope Pius IX. Read the romantic history of her life and the still more romantic history of her father. The baroness offers the sacred lock of hair for sale for a certain reason. Read why.

A beautiful young Western girl is said to have been slain by a member of her own family. The full story of this mysterious murder, which has been baffling police and detectives, appears in tomorrow's Times. Read the facts in the case and see who you think is the guilty party—the mother, the brother, or the sister.

A Scotchman at the age of eighty-three is going to fight Carnegie and Schwab and possibly the United States Government to recover millions of dollars in royalties which are due him for the use of his patent. Case is just to be started, and it may be the Supreme Court to decide the issue. See a picture of the famous old inventor and of his patent in the Sunday Times.

Kingston was the headquarters of pirates and buccanniers at one time. Red Ralph, the Rover, and Morgan, the Welsh, are among the bold pirates who carried their rich booty to the now earthquake-stricken city. Read the exciting account of their adventures in this vicinity in tomorrow's paper.

"What's the matter with the earth?" That's the question which everybody has been asking since the terrible Kingston disaster. Read the answer of a famous scientist in tomorrow's issue of The Times.

The second installment of "The Lion and the Mouse," the most eagerly sought-for novel of the present day, will be continued in tomorrow's paper. Do not fail to read this story. Everybody is talking about it.

There will be the usual complete local, telegraph, and cable news, full accounts of what is going on in the world of society, sport, drama, and politics. There will also be pages devoted to fashion and good housekeeping.

Reached City Last Night
After Nine Days' Absence in Canada.

Elmer Root, Secretary of State, returned to Washington last night after nine days' absence from the city, having spent five days as the guest of Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, at the governor's mansion in Ottawa.

"My visit to Canada was purely social and personal to Earl Grey," said Mr. Root. "Last summer, when in Washington, the governor general of Canada invited Mrs. Root, our daughter, and myself to visit him at Ottawa this winter. The visit has no significance whatever, except that good friends get along better than strangers, and this is true in all kinds of business, whether practicing law, selling goods or in Government service."

He had a most enjoyable trip, and, of course, we were quite hospitably entertained in Canada and I met many Canadians who have been foremost in building up their country."

Secretary Root left Ottawa early Thursday morning, and traveled to New York on the Montreal express, in the private car of President Charles M. Hayes, of the Grand Trunk Railroad. He arrived at New York at 9 o'clock Friday night and was driven to his home, 723 Park avenue, where he spent yesterday.

The Secretary was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Root and Miss Root. They were the guests of honor at a continual round of entertainments and Miss Root particularly enjoyed the ice and snow sports provided for her.

It was an inn when first built, and being situated on the old turnpike between Newark and Newburg, was the stopping place of Washington and his aides during the Revolution.

SCOTSMEN STIRRED
BY BOBBY BURNS

Caledonian Club Celebrates 148th Birthday of the Famous Poet.

His Memory Arouses Songs and Tributes at Merry Feast.

Congressmen Help Make Occasion One Long to Be Remembered.

Hot, hot! 'twas a' aboon one Bobbie Burns.
Anc' loyal sons of Scotland, proud of their great poet, sat around the banquet board in the Hotel Rector many hours last night, singing the songs of Burns and applauding without stint the tributes of orators to the poet's genius. It was the Caledonian Club, and the event was the 148th anniversary of the birth of Burns.

In the small hours of the morning the "hot Scotch" was brought on, and, in the pleasant, golden haze of memory, the sons of Scotland trod once more the "bonnie heather" and sang the "Jockie and Helen." They sang the songs of Burns, and many a quip and jest was neatly turned with a quotation from the writings of that son of Scotland who is lauded above all other Scotsmen.

Representatives Take Part.
The principal speakers of the evening were Representative John L. Kennedy of Nebraska, Representative Philip P. Campbell of Kansas, and T. V. Powderly, former United States Immigration Commissioner. Dr. Thomas Miller presided as toastmaster.

The toastmaster, who seemed to taste better because of being named according to the Scotch of it, there were many recitations given and songs sung. It was Burns from the beginning to the end of the evening, whether the matter arose from the singing of a song, a recitation, or a good story. And through every moment ran the chain of good-fellowship and pride of Scottish birth or descent.

During the "dinner" they served up such dishes as "champort tattles," "grouse neeps," "a haddock frae hielan' nowt," and "gentry rostit deuk."

Responded to Toasts.
The list of speakers, with the toasts to which they responded, was as follows:

"The Day We Celebrate," Hon. John Landers Kennedy, the President.
Hon. Philip P. Campbell, "Our Adopted Country," Benjamin Irving.
The Press, Frank H. Foster, "The Lassie," Capt. Robert Armour, "The Caledonian Club," Hugh Reid.

The officers of the club are: Hugh Reid, chief; John D. Higgins, vice chief; William Jardine, treasurer; P. Barton Falconer, recording secretary; James S. Hersey, secretary; John P. Duncan, librarian; William Jardine, guard; Murdoch McKelvey, conductor.

The committee on arrangements for the banquet was: Dr. Thomas Miller, chairman; Hugh Reid, Robert Low, John D. Higgins, James M. Leckie, and William Jardine.

ADDRESS ON THE DEFECTS OF SCHOOL ORGANIZATION

Dr. William D. Shearer, superintendent of schools of Elizabeth, N. J., made an address yesterday afternoon in the Central High School to teachers of the District. Dr. Shearer spoke of the defects in school organization in many large cities and said that 90 per cent of school children are the victims of defective school organization. He said the failure to promote children who lose time is responsible for classing many children under the head of "defective" when such action is not warranted by the actual standing of these pupils.

ASK THOMAS' OPINION OF PARENTS' OVERSEER

The proposed legislation has met with the hearty endorsement of George S. Wilson, secretary of the District Board of Charities, and it is believed that the Commissioners will act favorably upon the measure and recommend its passage by Congress.

Pennsylvania Railroad Bulletin

THE $20 OPEN MILEAGE TICKET
On September 1, 1906, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company placed on sale at $20 each one-thousand-mile tickets, good for one year, and good for the passage of the holder, and any number of other persons within mileage limit of ticket, on any of the lines of the Company east of Pittsburgh and Buffalo. This ticket has proved so popular that it has been almost impossible to print them fast enough to meet the demand, about 200,000 having been distributed at this time.

For business houses which keep a force on the road or which find it necessary to send men out frequently, the ticket is especially attractive, as it is good in the hands of any one at any time and for as many as it may be desirable to use it.

Merchants, manufacturers, business men, and others who make frequent trips to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, and other cities have also found it a very convenient ticket. It is available at any moment, not only for the business man himself, but for any one whom he may desire to send, and for the members of his family.

In fact, it is a convenient and desirable form of transportation for every one, for by its use a two-cent-a-mile rate is obtained for one-way trips, and in many cases a considerable reduction is gained in the excursion rates.

Mileage Tickets are on sale at all Ticket Offices.

HEADS BIG FIRM,
MASTERING WORK

Charles R. Erwin President of Lord & Thomas Advertising Agency.

Charles Roswell Erwin, who recently became president of Lord & Thomas, the Chicago agency which controls advertising appropriations running into millions of dollars annually, is in every sense of the term a self-made man. The rise of Mr. Erwin from a 10-a-week advertising solicitor to the president of one of the largest advertising agencies in the world forms one of the most interesting chapters in the annals of advertising.

Mr. Erwin has been connected with Lord & Thomas for more than twenty-two years, but his active business life began in his sixteenth year, when he obtained a position with the Commercial National Bank, of Chicago, as messenger. In eight years he was receiving $100 a month.

He climbed down from the banking ladder and began looking about for one that reached to greater heights. Although the advertising business was then in its infancy, Mr. Erwin decided to make it his life's work, as the possibilities of the new business appealed to his imagination and aroused his ambition.

The young firm of Lord & Thomas offered him a job as solicitor at a salary of $10 a week, and Mr. Erwin promptly accepted it, though he had been earning five times that sum in the bank. This was in 1884.

Advertising was fast becoming a factor of great importance in the promotion of all lines of business, and Mr. Erwin was far-sighted enough to realize its almost unlimited possibilities. Mr. Erwin became a recognized authority on methods of successful advertising. He acquired at first hand a fund of information covering every phase of the subject, and he kept his finger on the pulse of publicity.

For ten years from 1892 to 1902 he controlled a larger volume of advertising than any other man in the United States. For the last four years the business controlled by Albert D. Erwin, secretary and treasurer of the company, and the appropriations controlled by Mr. Erwin have been of about equal volume. In manner and method Mr. Erwin combines the banker's hard-headed conservatism with the aggressiveness and buoyant optimism of an advertising man.

His successful ability displayed by him while vice president of Lord & Thomas, in the building up of the most successful advertising organization in the world, gives assurance that the place at his head recently made vacant by the death of Ambrose L. Thomas will be speedily filled by Mr. Erwin.

For the three or four years preceding his death, Mr. Thomas had practically relinquished to his younger associates, Mr. Erwin and Mr. Lasker, the active management of the agency. The business, therefore, will be conducted along the same aggressive and remarkably successful lines as heretofore.

The working force is wonderfully organized. The various departments are headed by highly trained men, who have grown up with the agency. The space buyer—the man who comes in contact with the publishers—has a record of over twenty years' continuous service with the house. The head of the placing department, who takes care of the interests of the firm's advertising clients, has held that important post for an equal length of time. The dean of the soliciting staff is a man who has been with the agency for twenty-two years, while the half dozen or more men associated with him have been getting business for Lord & Thomas for periods ranging from ten to eighteen years.

Mr. Erwin is a member of many clubs and business organizations, including the Chicago Athletic Club, the South Shore Country Club, the Mid-Day Club, the Westward Ho Golf Club, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Sons of Veterans, and the Press Club, of Chicago.

J. H. JOHNSON'S
FUNERAL MONDAY

Death of One of Washington's Leading Business Men.

J. Harrison Johnson, one of Washington's most successful business men, died at the family residence, 70 C street southwest, yesterday, after a lingering illness, in his seventieth year. Seven and a half years ago, while serving as chairman of the District Excise Board, a position which he held for a number of years, he was taken suddenly ill. A few days thereafter he suffered a stroke of paralysis, since which time he has been confined to his room, practically a helpless invalid.

Mr. Johnson was a native of Dorchester county, Maryland. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm. When eighteen years old he left the family home to take up the life of a seaman. He was successful in mastering the art of navigation that at the age of twenty-one, when the civil war began, he was captain of a sailing vessel plying the Potomac. Two years later he located in this city, opening a general store and ship chandler's supply warehouse. In his business venture he was highly successful and from time to time his interests widened in scope until they covered many large and profitable lines all over the District.

He was a director at various times of a number of the banking, private, and national institutions of this city, insurance, trust, title, and business corporations. He was at one time vice president and general manager of the Great Falls Ice Company, resigning that position to promote, organize, and manage the Columbia Mutual Ice Company. He was also the organizer of the Hygienic Ice Company and was its president and general manager for many years. Among the more important positions of trust that he held was that of vice president of the Lincoln National Bank. He was a senior member of the real estate firm of J. Harrison Johnson & Sons, and largely interested in other big enterprises of the city.

Mr. Johnson was among the first members of the board of appraisers for the District of Columbia, when that body was created, and as such, was chairman of the excise board.

The surviving members of the family are five brothers and two sisters; his wife, M. Isabella Wimsatt Johnson; two daughters, Miss Grace M. and Miss Oscar L. Johnson, and four sons, Oscar L. Johnson, M.D.; R. Harrison, Dr. Louis A., and Frank A., of this city. His brothers and sisters are: Capt. Oliver F. Johnson, of Georgetown; Cornelius W. Johnson, Eldridge S. Johnson, of Baltimore; A. Geary Johnson, of Washington, D.C.; and Mrs. H. B. Simpson, and Mrs. A. B. Casselman, of Washington.

Regular mass will be celebrated at St. Dominic's Roman Catholic Church at 9 o'clock Monday morning, the Rev. Father Hinch, rector, officiating. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.
